

REDEEMED

Well I've wandered and squandered and fallen away
Could not see past the me that I made up one day
Till my heart got so broken I'd hide from the day
And I made up my mind I did not wanna stay here anymore

Can you hear me softly calling your name
Come and find me, bind me, make me the same
As a child free and wild and unshackled from shame (x2)

Well I've drifted I'm gifted at the art of alone
So unnerved by the arrows that pierced to the bone
And I'm not the exception, each of our hearts groan
And I just want to help spread the word, make it known
You are not alone

Can you hear Him softly calling your name
He would find you, bind you, make you the same
As a child free and wild and unshackled from shame (x2)

Free from pollution, yes I am protected, my minds resurrected from the shadows
I am shameless, my brokenness is blameless and I'm standing while I'm kneeling as my heart flies through the ceiling... again and again...again and again...again and again

Well I've wandered and squandered and fallen away
And I've filled up my pockets and rolled in the hay
But I'll never forget what brought me here today
And I'm grateful to know that my star's on it's way
